Antioch author finds inspiration to write womb-perspective book

By JESSICA JACOBSEN ijacobsen@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH - Alethea Pascascio enjoys being a stay-at-home mom in her Antioch home, but sometimes she looks for that escape to break out of the everyday norm.

That escape is writing.

'The writing is an outlet," Pascascio said. That outlet has been rather successful for

She just self-published her third book, "Womb Child," which is nominated for a Pulitzer prize.

"It's extremely exciting," Pascascio said about the nomination with a big smile on her face. "Whether it wins of not, that's extra. I'm just so excited about the nomination." 'Womb Child" is A book written from the perspective of fetus inside of his mother. Israel, the fetus, says in the beginning of the story that he will one day negotiate peace between two countries on the brink of nuclear war. But the reader will learn the story about how circumstances "on the outside" could result in Israel not getting a chance to be born.

Pascascio said one of her favorite parts to read in the book is when Israel is describing the turmoil his parents are going through when deciding whether to have him or not.

"I like how I relayed a core of how the feelings of the mother affect his emotional state as well," Pascascio said.

"Womb Child" was inspired by many things, Pascascio said.

Two new blogs at LakeCountyJournals.com

We live in an increasingly Webruled world, and here at the Lake County Journals we're trying to add more and more things for you to read and view on our Web site.

This week, we're introducing two news blogs, the Editor's Choice blog and the Cooking by the Book blog. The Editor's Choice blog will have two purposes.

It will highlight the best that the Journals has to offer each week, including quotes of the week, mustread stories and links to photo slideshows we put together.

It also is a place to highlight community events and photos that didn't

You can see both blogs by going to LakeCountyJournals;com.

We're not going to stop there, though. We plan on unveiling new blogs as we continue to improve our Web site.

An arts and entertainment blog is in the works, and we hope to have a sports blog up and running in a few weeks, as well.

So keep coming to the Web site and look out for the new voices we plan on featuring there.

Also, as you might have noticed, we've been putting photo slideshows of events up on our Web site each week the past three weeks and we will continue to do so.

Author tries to explore numerous genre options

She has always been intrigued by the process of life, but her personal experience with pregnancies also had a hand in the book.

When Pascascio was pregnant with her daughters, she kept journals about how she felt they would become. Pascascio said she could even sense how they felt at times.

"Everything that I wrote about them when I was pregnant is really who they are now." Pascascio said.

From there, Pascascio got the idea for her third book, which also was the hardest for her to write, she said.

Because writers tend to describe what they see, it was hard to write from the perspective of a baby inside the mom, Pascascio said.

"You really have to be conscious of how something sounds ... just something that you heard and how to translate that into words," she said.

"Womb Child" is not like Pascascio's other books. In fact, Pascascio doesn't have a genre that she falls into.

Her first book, "Bag Lady," would be a drama she said. "Help Wanted: A Woman's Guide to Strategically Position Men in Their Life," was her second book, which was a self-help book. But Pascascio describes "Womb Child" as literary fiction.

"I'm not stuck in any particular genre," Pascascio said.

Amanda Schwengel - aschwengel @nwnewsgroup.com

Alethea Pascascio of Antioch has written three books, which she self-published. Her third book, "Womb Child," will be available to buy May 1 at Barnes and Noble and online.

"Womb Child" will be available May 1 at Barnes and Noble and at Web sites such as www.amazon.com.

This will not be the last you hear from Pascascio, though. She has three stories ready to be released, but she isn't sure whether she wants to release them as one book or three separate ones.

Pascascio also is helping her 7-yearold daughter write her own book.

"I promised her that this year we will get a book out for her also," Pascascio

Park to open

ANTIOCH - The Tim Osmond Sports Complex dedication ceremoný will take place at 1 p.m. April 19. The complex, which is named after the late State Rep. Timothy H. Osmond, recently completed phase one of its four phase project. With the completion of phase one, the 80-acre park will open for public use.

The dedication ceremony will include comments by State Rép. JoAnn Osmond, R-Antioch, Antioch Village President Dorothy Larson, and Antioch Township Supervisor Steve Smouse.

There also will be musical performances by the Sweet Adeline's Chorus and Jennifer Neumann, Miss Antioch 2007. The Antioch Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4551 will conduct a presentation of colors at the ceremony as well.

After the ceremony, the Ántioch Little League will play a three inning exhibition game.

After the game is the unveiling of the Timothy H. Oşmond Exhibit at The Meeting House, 977 Main St. in Antioch. The unveiling will be from 3 to 5 p.m.

Groundbreaking ceremony to take place

ANTIOCH - The Village of Antioch will have its groundbreaking ceremony for the new wastewater treatment plant at 11 a.m. April 19. The ceremony will be near the Scout House.

The project has been in the works since the first feasibility study was done in late 2005. The construction of the new plant should be complete during the middle of 2009 while another year will be needed to remove and landscape the current plant. Funding for this project. was acquired by a low-interest IEPA loan. Once completed, this $16 million project will be the largest undertaken to date by the Village of Antioch.

Holly Frederichs wants people to Swing into Spring.

Frederichs is the director of the Lakes Area Swing Band, and she has been working nonstop for the band's Swing into Spring fundraiser.

"We've been rehearsing forever," Frederichs said.

The fundraiser will begin at 7 p.m. Friday, April 18, at Rumpoles Banquet Hall, 352 E. Main St. in Twin Lakes, Wis. Cost is $10 at the door, but kids 10 and younger get in for free.

This fundraiser is one way the nonprofit band works to raise money so it can perform at places such as Winchester House in Libertyville, a senior center.

The band rehearses from 9 to nearly 11 p.m. every Monday at Antioch Community High School, Frederichs said. At Swing into Spring, the music will be from the '30s to '50s, including favorites from Glenn Miller and Frank Sinatra.

"We really hope for a good turnout," Frederichs said.

Clean sweep

With the nice weather finally here, let's not mess things up by disposing of those waste products that have been in the garage all winter.

The Antioch Public Works is hosting a Household Chemical Waste collection where it will collect materials like oil-based paint, paint thinner, antifreeze, pesticides and much more.

The collection will be from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Saturday, April 19, at the Antioch Public Works, 796 Holbek

The chemical waste collection is sponsored by the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO).

For more information about what products can be brought to the collection, visit SWALCO's Web site, www.swalco.org.

Pageant time is almost here again, so every girl who wants to compete in this year's annual Miss, Jr. Miss and Little Miss Antioch Pageant should pick up an application at the Antioch Parks and Recreation Office, 806 Holbek Drive.

The application fee is $20 and applications must be turned in by 5 p.m.

The Miss Antioch Pageant is for girls 16 to 21 years old who have good academic standing, show community involvement and have three references in order to be a contestant.

The winner will receive scholarship money toward the college of her choice.

Jr. Miss is for girls 11 to 13 years old and Little Miss is for girls 6 to 8 years old.

The contest is June 21 at Antioch High School.

Good luck to those who enter.

Money Smart Week to provide financial tips

ANTIOCH - "Focusing on Your Financial Future" will be presented Tuesday, April 22, at Antioch Community High School as part of Money Smart Week, a series of free classes and activities designed to help consumers manage their personal finances. The annual program is organized by the Federal Reserve Bank and numerous financial institutions.

 Appropriate for both parents and their children, "Focusing on Your Financial Future" aims to increase a family's financial awareness so that all members can make informed decisions about how they can achieve their goals.

Knowledgeable speakers from both State Bank of the Lakes and Antioch High School will emphasize budgeting, saving and investing, particularly for both college and retirement.

For more information, visit moneysmartweek.org/chicago or call Susan Malo at 847-751-

Statewide recognition

ANTIOCH - Isabella Hoffman of W.C. Petty Elementary in Antioch received first place in the statewide Illinois Arbor Day Poster Contest. Hoffman, a fifth-grade student, will receive a T-shirt, books, posters, and gift care for Barnes and Noble for $50.

The theme for the poster contest was Trees are Terrific ... Inside and Out.

Hoffman included in her poster things that trees provide for people, animals, and the environment. Some examples she included were representations of trees used for shelter, food, oxygen, beauty, and medicine.

Hoffman's poster is now being sent to compete in a national contest.

LINDENHURST – At first glance, Lindenhurst resident Lisa Lange Van Camp looks like a typical mother of two kids. Her face lights up when she talks about how great her kids are, but after talking to Van Camp for a couple of minutes, you learn that her days aren't so typical.

Van Camp has osteoarthritis and Dercum disease. Osteoarthritis is a degenerative disease of the joints, Van Camp said.

According to the National Organization for Rare Disorders, "Dercum disease is a rare disorder characterized by multiple, painful fatty deposits (lipomas), primarily on the trunk, forearms and lower legs. It is associated with pain that may be caused by these deposits pressing on nearby nerves."

Lipomas are a growth of fat cells in a thin, fibrous capsule, according to www.webmd.com.

Van Camp also will be tested soon to find out whether she has Lyme disease, which might have something to do with her arthritis.

Van Camp found out she had Dercum when she was searching on-is no cure for Dercum, and doctors are still trying to determine what causes it. They really have no idea how to treat it," Van Camp said.

Because of the osteoarthritis and Dercum, Van Camp has had a number of surgeries, including a spinal fusion because her vertebrae had fused to-

The bill would allow – with the consent of a doctor – people to grow up to 12 marijuana plants in their homes.

One of the concerns Bond and other senators have is how to control the drug and related safety issues.

'Law enforcement is still not convinced," Bond said.

Bond said he was concerned about caregivers having access to the drugs prescribed to their patients.

Another issue is that a state law would not protect people against federal charges.

"This is not a perfect solution," Bond said.

The reservations Bond has about the law have not soured him on the future possibility of this legislation.

Urologist Aurora St. Luke's

Medical Center

Prostate cancer, one of the most common forms of cancers in men, is best treated when diagnosed as early as possible.

Starts With Early Diagnosis

"When we obtain early diagnosis and treat the tumor before it spreads outside the prostate, the cure rate is much higher," notes Peter F. Leonovicz, III, MD, a urologist at Aurora St. Luke's Medical Center in Milwaukee.

Diagnosis may require a blood test for elevated levels of prostate-specific antigen (PSA), a digital rectal exam, in which the physician feels the prostate for abnormalities, followed by a transrectal ultrasound and biopsy.

An ultrasound probe is inserted into the rectum to measure prostate volume and scan for tumor masses. It also helps guide another type of probe through the rectal wall to take 8 to 10 small samples of prostate tissue for biopsy microscopic evaluation of potential cancer cells. The biopsy will provide a Gleason score that helps determine a prognosis and treatment.

Treatment Options

Removal of the prostate (radical prostatectomy)

- Open surgery: An incision several inches long is made in the pubic area or the perineal area (between the scrotum and anus).
- Robotic-assisted surgery: Aurora St. Luke's was the first hospital in Wisconsin to perform robotic-assisted surgery and has the most experience in performing this minimally-invasive surgery. This procedure achieves allthe objectives of traditional surgery with less trauma to each patient, translating into shorter recovery time and less pain. Aurora St. Luke's has performed over 500 robot-assisted prostatectomies.

. Tankangang kanarang kanarang ana kalaman manangsa panang kanaran kalan ini ini nggarang at ini ini ini ng kalam · Laparoscopic surgery: Several very small incisions are made in the abdomen through which micro surgical instruments are inserted.

Radiation therapy

- External beam radiation: A computer aims radioactive rays at the prostate from outside the body to kill cancer cells.
- · Brachytherapy: Radioactive "seeds" are implanted in the prostate to kill cancer cells. This may have fewer side effects than external beam radiation.

Cryotherapy

• A probe is inserted into the prostate and freezes the prostate to kill cancer cells. This technique has improved in the last few years, but long-term data is not yet available, according to Dr. Leonovicz.

Hormonal therapy

 Hormonal medication doesn't cure prostate cancer, but sometimes is used with radiation therapy or when cancer has spread to other areas of the body. By impeding testosterone, it can slow cancer growth.

Sometimes prostate cancer is slow growing and less likely to cause death than other health issues. For men over age 70, those with other health problems or whose life expectancy is less than 10 years, "watchful waiting" can spare them from unnecessary treatment.

"Studies indicate that based on patients' perceptions of the experience, their satisfaction and quality of life are similar whether they had a prostatectomy or radiation treatment," Dr. Leonovicz says.

But there are issues related to monitoring PSA levels for cancer reoccurrence following treatment, and the feasibility of followup treatment if cancer reoccurs. "'Salvage' radiation following prostatectomy is generally well-tolerated," he notes, "while 'salvage', prostatectomy after radiation therapy is associated with an increased complication rate. The best advice is to discuss all treatment options with a prostate cancer specialist."

For more information on prostate cancer treatment options, call the Aurora St. Luke's Second Opinion Program at 1-888-649-6892.

CLC revises its electrical engineering tech degree

Electrical engineering technologists are the brains keeping many of today's cool electronic gadgets working:

This fall, the College of Lake County will offer classes in its revised two-year associate's degree program in electrical engineering technology. This new program is designed to allow individuals to join the work force after earning an associate's degree or transfer to a four-year institution, such as the Milwaukee School of Engineering, to earn a bachelor's degree.

An information session will be at 7 p.m. Monday, April 21, to provide details on the many career opportunities in electrical engineering and electrical engineering technology as well as the degree programs offered by CLC.

The free session will be in Room T326 on the CLC Grayslake Campus, 19351 W. Washington St. For information, contact Fred Scheu, department chair, at 847-543-2484 or at fscheu@clcillinois.edu.

College board approves trustee travel guidelines

Concluding several months of discussion, the College of Lake County board approved new conference, meeting and travel guidelines for trustees.

The new guidelines reaffirm the importance of travel to conferences and meetings, both for the professional development of individual trustees and for the support of advocacy efforts on behalf of community colleges at the state and national levels.

"We need to be as transparent as possible," Board Chairman William M. Griffin said in urging approval of the new guidelines. The guidelines require documentation for meal expenses and itemized receipts "where feasible." Additionally, the guidelines specify that trustees will not be reimbursed for their individual alcohol expenses.

Gurnee man wins furnace

Andrew Jimenez of Gurnee was the lucky winner of a new furnace at the College of Lake County Career Quest event on April 2.

The furnace, donated by Johnstone Supply of Gurnee, will be installed by students and staff from the CLC Refrigeration and Air Conditioning program.

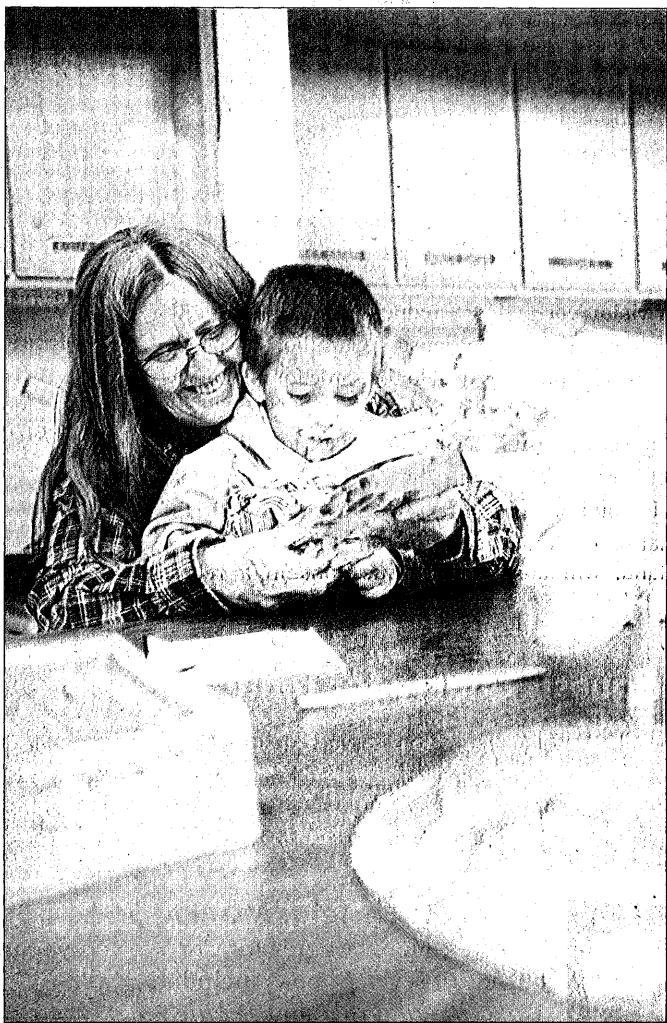

Jimenez, a CLC student who has taken construction management and business courses, said he was very happy to win the furnace.

About 300 people attended the career exploration event at the college, which featured hands-on opportunities to learn about the current job market and CLC academic programs, including career programs and transfer degree options.

County celebrates Earth Day

By KATHY GRESEY kgresey@nwnewsgroup.com

As an environmental advocate, Chris Geiselhart observes Earth Day. But her willingness to improve the planet extends throughout the year.

Geiselhart, president of the Lake County Audubon Society, has shown her dedication to the Earth by starting a recycling program and organizing the collection of hazardous waste. She said bettering the environment was a year-round assignment.

"Every day should be Earth Day," she said. "If we had that kind of mentality, it would be a lot easier for people to make good decisions about what they consume."

Earth Day — April 22 — is a worldwide observance that for cuses on developing a healthy sustainable planet. More than a billion people recognize the day each year, said Kathleen Rogers, president of Earth Day Network, an organization that promotes environmental citizenship and progressive action

"Everybody is getting into the green movement," she said. Even in the poorest of poor countries, people are into it."

Residents of Lake County will have the opportunity to observe Earth Day through a variety of activities this week.

Waste Management Recycle America and the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County will host an open house from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, April 19, at the WMRA Educycle Center, 30869 N. Route 83, in Grayslake, During the event, visitors can learn where recyclables go after they are collected at the curb. For information, call the Educycle Center at 847-548-1755.

Also in Grayslake, the College of Lake County will host a campus clean up at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 19.

Participants should wear closed-toe shoes and bring gloves.

Health board: Too many beds in Lake County

State shoots down 2 plans to build hospitals in area

By KATHY GRESEY kgresey@nwnewsgroup.com and DANI SCHWEIGERT dschweigert@nwnewsgroup.com

Round Lake Village President Bill Gentes is feeling what most Lake County residents seem to be feeling after the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board denied two hospital proposals for the area - frustrated.

"The hospital planning board [members] are pumpkin heads," Gentes said. "They used an antiquated, outdated methodology to determine the number of beds and distance to the hospitals.'

Officials from the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board have denied proposals by Advocate Health Care and Vista Health System to build hospitals in Round Lake and Lindenhurst, respectively.

The board cited an excess of more than 200 hospital beds in the county when making its decision, officials said.

Both Advocate and Vista now have about 30 days to approach the board with revised hospital plans, said Kimberly

Groups and individuals will meet at the C-wing entrance to the college, 19351 W. Washing-

The college also will present other Earth Day activities, including a discussion about climate at 3 p.m. Thursday, April 24, in room A248; and a kid-friendly snake demonstration at 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 23, in room C005. For more information about the events, visit www.clcillinois.edu and type "Earth Week" in the search prompt.

In addition, the Lake County Forest Preserve District will host restoration workdays at area forest preserves Saturday, April 19, and Sunday, April 20. No experience is necessary to participate. For more information, Land Management Technician Tim Smith at 847-968-3329.

"There are lots of opportunities out there," said Allison Frederick, an environmental communications specialist with the Lake County Forest Preserve District. "Every day we should be doing something for the earth."

Geiselhart invited interested parties to attend a bird walk from 8 a.m. to noon at Almond Marsh Forest Preserve, south of Route 120 and west of Almond road near Grayslake.

She said just one person could help make the planet a better place to live.

"I really think the individual can make a difference," she said. "Once I realized there was a way to do something, I ran with it."

What you can do

Kathleen Rogers, president of Earth Day Network, has tips for interested residents:

· Change the thermostat -Homeowners will save money, even if you turn it down 1 or 2 degrees. · Maintain your car - Inflate the tires properly

• Exercise - Cut a motor vehicle trip out of your life.

 Switch light bulbs – New light bulbs are energy efficient.

• Turn off the water - Be water conscious. Take shorter showers.

Cajun bands perform

Cajun music comes to the James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts at the College of Lake County when two bands from Louisiana - BeauSoleil avec Michael Doucet and the subdudes - combine for "Soul of the Bayou" at 7 p.m. April 20 in the Mainstage Theatre.

Grammy-winning BeauSoleil avec Michael Doucet combines Cajun musical traditions with zydeco, New Orleans jazz, Tex-Mex, country and blues.

The subdudes, a five-man group, are a living encapsulation of American music, a cauldron of sounds that stirs together meaty grooves and jazzy dynamics, soulful R&B swagger, easy vocal harmonies, cheeky rock 'n' roll attitude and folksy social consciousness.

BeauSoleil' s "L'Amour Ou La Folie" received the 1997 Grammy® Award for Best

Traditional Folk Album, The group appeared on the nationally broadcast radio show, "A Prairie Home Companion," on Feb. 23. Doucet, a fiddler, composer and bandleader, received a grant from United States Artists, a foundation dedicated to nurture, support and strengthen America's finest living artists. In 2005, he received a 2005 National Heritage Fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Over the course of 20 years and eight albums, the subdudes have quietly become one of America's national music treasures. "Street Symphony," the band's CD released in August 2007, marks the subdudes' third album since regrouping in 2002 after a five-year hiatus, and their first set of new material written since Hurricane Katrina devastated New Orleans, where they formed.

Easy ways to make saving money a breeze

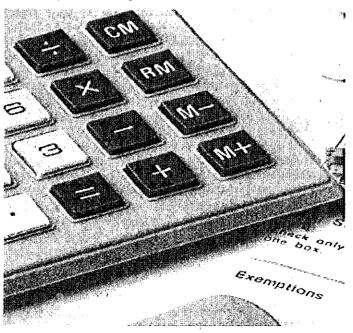

Everybody wants to save more money and spend less. But it always seems like you have to make big sacrifices in order to save up for big goals -- like taking that dream vacation, buying a house or building a retirement nest egg.

However, a few simple steps can make it easier to meet your financial goals. By changing some small spending habits you can quickly put yourself on the road to saving more money.

"Saving money doesn't have to be hard. The less you spend on things you don't need, the more you get to spend on things you really want. It's all about setting priorities, choosing your expenses, and saving that money you don't spend," says Michael McAuliffe, president of Family Credit Management Service (FCMS), a non-profit consumer credit counseling

"Too often goals of homeownership, debt-free living, or a comfortable retirement are sacrificed for the temporary and instant gratification of convenient, more affordably priced items," he explains.

For those determined to spend less and save more, free help is being made available by the FCMS, which is offering a "Stop, Think, Save!" Toolkit online at

Here are some easy guidelines from the financial experts at the FCMS that can help you stop and think about those spending impulses -- and save more:

Set a "Big Goal" (the main thing you are saving for) and a monthly savings goal. Put a picture or other reminder of your Big Goal in places you usually spend money -- such as your wallet, your car or next to the computer.

Make a list of ways to reduce your spending, then keep track of how much you save. Every time you stop yourself from buying something you don't need, add the amount you saved to a "savings list." Put that money into your savings account

The easiest way to build your savings is by cutting out small, unnecessary purchases. These expenses can add up quickly. Instead, make them add up in your savings account. Here are some easy things to avoid:

- Buying something you don't need just because it's on
- · Missing bill due dates and paying late fees.
- Paying for cable channels you don't watch.
 Regularly spending $3 or more on soft drinks and coffee or buying eigarettes two or three times a week.
- Buying name brand food and prescriptions instead of identical generic items.

Shut off your "purchase auto-pilot" and actively think about every purchase you want to make. When making impulse purchases, many use credit cards so the immediate pinch isn't felt. Here are five questions to ask yourself before pulling out

- Do I need this, or do I just want it and, more importantly,
- will I be glad I made this purchase in a week? · Is there a cheaper way I could meet this need or a better way to spend this money?
- Would I still buy this if I were counting out dollar bills?

If all else fails, a credit card sleeve inscribed with the motivator: "Put me back! Your goals are more important than this!" prompts a consumer to take a few extra seconds and ask whether the purchase is something really needed.

Before you know it, all these small savings steps can add up to a pile of cash," says McAuliffe.

For additional free money saving ideas from the FCMS, or to request a free "Stop, Think, Save!" Toolkit, visit www.stop-thinksave.org or call 800-994-3328. (StatePoint)

Driving a stick not automatic

For the first time in my life, I'm petrified of hills. And it's my new vehicle's fault.

After driving automatics for my entire automobile career since the government decided to entrust me with a driver's license, I broke down and bought a manual from a friend.

How difficult could it be? When cars were invented, everybody drove a manual. My mom drives a manual, and she still can't even use the Internet.

Then I got behind the wheel. And promptly killed the car. I have done this many, many times since.

Now, I don't mean kill like what happens to cougars when they encounter Chicago police. I mean shutting the engine off by doing something wrong with either the a) clutch, b) brake, c) gas, or d) all of the above at the same time despite only having two legs.
Frankly, I've found that having three different pedals to push is probably two too many for me. I think my driving ability peaked with bumper cars.

After a day of practice, I was able to drive the vehicle home successfully from southern Indiana where I bought it. Of course, that was easy because it mostly was highway driving, which means I don't have to mess with shifting gears and pushing in the clutch.
I've now had the car for a couple of more days and am slowly figuring everything out.

Everything except for hills. Let me just put it this way. You do not want to be behind me on a big hill. I will roll back, and there's a good chance I will kill the vehicle. Again.

Write to Joe Grace at jgrace@nwnewsgroup.com.

Sigh. I should have stuck with bumper cars.

And, if you live in a library taxing district or are a resident within a community with a municipal library, you already have paid for these services through taxes.

A study by the American Library Association in 2002 found that in tough economic times, more people take advantage of the library.

The study found that after Sept. 11, library usage surged by about 11 percent.

That is not surprising.

In tough times people look for nonessential areas to cut back. For example, some people might cancel cable. In such a situation, a local library with DVDs of films and TV shows can be helpful.

The same can be said of the Internet. If someone no longer can afford Internet service, the library can

This week also happens to be National Library Week. Local libraries want you, the public, to know what services are available. Local libraries are hosting a plethora of activities such as open houses.

Shame on the board

To the Editor: To: Susana Lopatka, Courtney Avery, John Penn, and Dr. James Burden,

I am appalled at your intent to deny the building of a hospital in Lindenhurst by Vista Health!

You need to spend some time trying to drive to a hospital from Antioch in a snowstorm or during rush hour.

If it were a life-threatening emergency, you would die.

The hospital most people would have to go to is in Waukegan.

Don't even mention Condell, since they no longer accept: 🕾 BCBS insurance.

Most people I know now go out of state to Kenosha, Wis., as it is faster then getting to an Illinois hospital.

Why would we want to sup port another state's hospital? The area has grown at a rapid

To jeopardize someone's life because you think Lake County has too many open beds is: ridiculous.

My husband recently had an emergency and I drove him to Highland Park.

I don't want to even walk from my car to inside the hospital in Waukegan.

The crime rate in Waukegan is horrible and I don't feel safe. How do you get appointed to this board?

Are you elected, and if so, I will be one to campaign against you for making such poor decisions.

If appointed, let's start talking to the people responsible for putting you into a position that gives you the ability to make such a decision.

You did not even do énough research to see what these communities wanted or needed.

You never asked what my needs are.

My neighbors weren't asked either. So how can you, living in Springfield, know what our needs are? How many people have to die en-route to Waukegan before you wake up and take notice to what is obviously needed? Do you think an explanation to a mother who just lost a child en-route is, "Sorry we have too many open beds in Waukegan to open a closer hospital that could have saved your child" will work? It won't work for me.

Please, for the sake of our lives, reconsider your position on this matter.

This area needs a facility of their own for emergencies. At least talk to the residents and the doctors in the area. You obviously aren't listening to our elected officials that have been trying to tell you what their community wants and needs. I would like a response from this board.

Do I think you will respond?

Early Jearning important

To the Editor: As the senior vice president at Busy Bee Children's Center, a program of Kids Hope United, I have witnessed just how important early learning programs are. Children who attend high-quality early learning programs are more likely to succeed in school, graduate and do well in life.

By investing in the education of our young, we are ensuring they will have bright futures. With that in mind, Busy Bee

Children's Center is pleased to announce that we will be celebrating the Week of the Young Child, which runs from April 14-

Sponsored by the National Association for the Education of Young Children, the Week of the Young Child is an annual celebration spotlighting the importance of early education and honoring the teachers and organizations making a positive difference in the lives of children.

All week long, we will host special events that will bring children, parents, teachers and the community together.

Additionally, we encourage the community to support early learning programs by promoting early literacy programs and working to ensure that our public policies support early learning for all children.

Stories on drugs in water a public service

With apologies to a classic poem, when I read about the Associated Press investigation into phannaceuticals invading our drinking water, I thought, "Water, water, everywhere; but is it fit to drink?"

For five months, the AP checked into the presence of drugs in the drinking water in 24 major metropolitan areas affecting 41 million Americans. It found that all across the country there are traces of drugs such as antibiotics, antidepressants, birth control pills, anxiety medications, cancer treatments, pain killers, cholestoral-reducing medications, and others, that enter into our water supplies.

Many of the drugs are unused medicines that are tlushed down toilets or thrown into sinks and eventually wind down into water treatment systems. Other drugs are the residue of prescription medicine that are excreted and flushed down toilets going through sewer systems and also ending into our water supply. Although there are mixed opinions whether very minor presence of drugs in drinking water are cause for alarm. there is enough concern that the long-term effects could pose a threat to water quality.

This investigation was probably the first to examine whether households are a factor in polluting the nation's drinking water.

There have been many investigations into hospitals, pharmaceutical industries, and doctor and dentist offices as sources of contaminated water supplies. It was responsible to also check whether people are an unknowing source. Most water suppliers will vouch for the health and safety of their treated water, and they are probably right, even if there might be very small traces of drugs.

To my knowledge, there is no federal or state law that mandates drinking water be monitored to test for phannaceuticals. Even for those suppliers that voluntarily check for drugs, there is no law that they must report such drug presence.

As we know, recent years has seen the explosion of bottled water. Some buy it because they don't have confidence in municipal or other water suppliers, even if their is no basis for their lack of faith.

They think that bottled water is natural spring water. So, they buy it because they feel that water coming from springs must be "purest of the pure." And some have found that their wells are no longer

"crystal clear."

For those who turned to bottled water because they felt that it had to be pure, they might have been disappointed. About 50 percent of bottled water is treated tap water. Even some advertised as spring , water were really tap water.

It is always worthwhile when a study is done to remedy a problem. The presence of drugs in our drinking water might not be a cause for alarm at this time. But, I believe that the Associated Press should be commended for bringing this public health matter to our attention. Because there might be a long-term, harmful effect.

Congress has already expressed an interest in having hearings, which will come up with recommendations.

Water is nature's gift to us and we must treat it as a treas-

Enjoying free time

My husband and I had a chance to get away overnight this past weekend, just the two

In part, it was thanks to the crazy logistics of our blended family.

You see, when starting a family of mine and yours, as Tim and I did (an "Insta-Family," as I like to call it), there is no honeymoon phase, even if you are lucky enough to have an actual honeymoon.

There is no feeling of being free and unfettered. No starryeyed dreaming of what life with kids will be like.

Because you already know what life with kids is like. Sometimes it's beyond great and sometimes it's ... well, not that

But then there are weekends like this past one, when our boys' respective parents simultaneously decide to have the pleasure of their company. Suddenly out of four children, we are left with just one child. (our "joint project") for the weekend. It is a mathematical feat I'm sure some parents of traditional families would like to replicate. And this time, the boys' visits magically coordinated with our 3-year-old, Angelina, going to her grandparents for the night.

Yes, when the stars align like this, it really is a thing of beauty, and one Tim and I didn't let pass us by.

It's funny, when my oldest son, Antonio, was born, I was so attached and overprotective. Even if I just left him for a few hours to go to Target, I felt as if I had left my right arm at home. Going out for the evening necessitated a detailed list of instructions for the sitter and heart wrenching goodbyes.

Now, my husband and I have four children between us. We are just happy someone is willing to take them off our hands for a few hours. All I ask is that they are all more or less in one piece when we get home, brushed teeth and pajamas arenegotiable.

But while it is great to get away, when it comes to my kids, the saying."absence makes the heart grow fonder" is definitely true. There is truly nothing better than coming home to happy shouts for Mom, warm hugs and kisses and loads and loads of laundry.

Having a small wedding? Manage guest list without guilt

By GENEVA WHITE

gwhite@nwnewsgroup.com

From tasting the cake to choosing that perfect first dance number, most wedding preparations are fun and exciting.

But there's one task that can drive a seemingly normal couple to the brink of insanity - the guest list. For small weddings, which industry experts define as fewer than 100 people, the process is even more overwhelming.

"It's really challenging," said Ariel Meadow Stallings, author of the book "Offbeat Bride: Taffeta-Free Alternatives for Independent Brides." "You feel like a bouncer at a club. You're in charge of this VIP list."

For some brides, the guest list feels like a miserable game of "Who do I love the most?" And because weddings often are family affairs and chances for folks who've been apart for years to reunite, there's bound to be animosity, Stallings

"You definitely have to tread cautiously," she said. "For a lot of people, weddings are de facto family reunions. You're basically hosting a family reunion, and if you didn't invite the whole family,

Still, it is possible to keep the number of wedding guests to a reasonable level without losing your mind. Simply apply a few basic rules, which can vary from couple to couple.

Wedding planning experts say anyone making a financial contribution to the event is definitely on the list.

As for co-workers, remember that it's all or nothing.

"You can invite your boss, but if you invite one co-worker, you need to invite other co-workers," said Laura Wrasman, publisher of Wedding Guide Chicago. "There are always exceptions if one's a best friend or something."

Many couples think they're obligated to invite all the people who invited them to their weddings, said Wrasman, whose publication is based in Aurora. That need to return the favor could make the guest list significantly longer than desired.

'That's when you essentially just have immediate family and maybe extended family and really close friends of the couple," Wrasman said.

Since "plus ones" can make the numbers add up quickly, there's nothing wrong with keeping casual dates out of the event. Spouses as well as live-in partners should be invited, said Amy Elliott, senior editor of Brides Chicago. If the guest has been dating a person seriously for several months or more, he or she also should be included, she said.

"It just gets really complicated," Elliott said. "If they're one of those couples who's been dating for eight years, that would be a major faux pas if you didn't invite [the partner]."

Taking a vow of silence during the engagement isn't necessary. But Elliott recommends avoiding the urge to gush about the wedding to friends and colleagues who haven't been invited.

"I'm always a big fan of discretion," Elliott said. "The less information you give, the better."

At the same time, no one, save for a close friend or family member of the couple, should assume he or she is receiving an invité, she said.

"People should understand just how tricky weddings are and be forgiving," Elliott said. "It's not personal: You have to draw the line.'

Although a small wedding makes the guest list tougher, having such an intimate event does come with advantages, Wrasman said. For one, fewer people means more money can be spent on better

Salad made in a snap

Recipe uses rotisserie chicken, vegetables

By JEAN KRESSY kgresey@nwnewsgroup.com

In 1907, an enterprising Philadelphia delicatessen owner named Edward Schlorer added preservatives to his wife's mayonnaise and sold it as salad dressing. This might have seemed like a small footnote in culinary history, but it was a turning point in the making of chicken salad.

Instead of making boiled dressing, with flour and vinegar, cooks could combine mayonnaise, leftover chicken from Sunday dinner, a couple of ribs of chopped celery, and a little salt and pepper, without going near the stove.

Like many cooks, we've done our share of tinkering with chicken salad. Like all chicken salads, it's flat-out delicious.

Roasted Chicken Salad with Basil A purchased rotisserie chicken makes this salad a snap. Cook the corn and beans until just crisp-tender.

1 (21/2- to 3-pound) cooked rotisserie chicken cups cooked green beans, cut into 1-inch pieces cups cooked corn kernels (about 3 ears) 1 chopped red bell pepper 1/2 cup chopped fresh basil 1/4 cup pine nuts, toasted 2 garlic cloves, crushed ⅓cup extra virgin olive oil

1/4 cup red or white wine vine-

1 teaspoon salt 12 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper

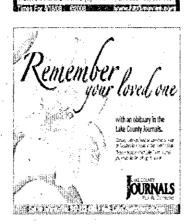

1. Remove skin from chicken; discard. Remove meat from bones and shred or chop. You should have about 4 cups of meat.

2. Toss chicken, beans, corn, bell pepper, basil and pine nuts in a large bowl.

3. Whisk garlic, oil, vinegar, salt and pepper in a bowl; pour over salad, tossing gently. Serves 8.

'Four Places' a check on aging

By TOM WITOM thomaswitom@yahoo.com

Coping with the so-called "golden years" can be a challenge not only for those undergoing the process but also for their grownup children.

This situation yields fertile ground for Joel Drake Johnson in his new play "Four Places," now premiering at Victory Gardens Biograph Theatre in Chicago. Johnson's slice-of-life play, 130-minutes long and performed without intermission, offers a deft mix of dark comedy and frank drama.

Tickets, please

What: "Four Places" Where: Victory Gardens Biograph Theater, 2257 N. Lincoln Ave., Chicago

When: Through May 4 Tickets: $20-$45 Show information: 773-871-3000

The central character is Peggy (a scrappy performance by Mary Ann Thebus), an aging, fretful woman whose recent behavior has set off alarm bells with her two middle-aged children. As a result, the weekly motherhood restaurant turns into something more profound.

Peggy is joined by daughter Ellen (Meg Thalken), still morose following the death of her husband and son Warren (Peter Burns), a short-fused divorced teacher. The two hammer at their mother's excessive drinking habits and "irrational behavior," based on reports from the housekeeper who was hired to keep a watchful eye on the parents. Concerns also are raised about their frail, cancer-stricken father. At lunch, Peggy shares

tions, such as a health problem that recently has afflicted her and about the anger over a past flirtation by her husband – something that still smolders just below the surface. Still, that fact that a parent has a "secret life" separate from her kids comes as something of a surprise to Ellen and Warren.

'Some things between two people together 50 years ... are private," Peggy says.

"Four Places," directed by Sandy Shinner, takes audiences on an emotional ride they will unlikely forget.

Sideouts Bar & Eatery: Let the Good Times Roll

Sideouts Bar & Eatery is all ways packed when I drive by on weekends. Now I know why Sideouts offers a winning combination of good food and drink, along with live music and events.

Not only does Sideouts have a varied menu of appetizers, salads, sandwiches, pasta, ribs, and fish, but it also offers customers daily food and drink specials, like all-you-can-eat ribs for $10.95 on Saturdays.

I ordered one of their Friday specials: fresh baked tilapia, steamed broccoli, baked potato, and a crisp salad, all for the low price of $7.95. The meal was certainly a value, especially along with the friendly, efficient attention of my server, Alison.

During the day Sideouts Bar & Eatery has the comfortable at mosphere of a neighborhood sports bar, with 15 TV's broadcasting sports or local news, a pool table in the corner, and seating for lunchtime patrons. At night it's a popular club with tables removed to uncover the dance floor.

Outside is yet another story.
Welcome to the beach, where you can enjoy a meal or drink on the outdoor patio and bar while watching leagues play on the 5 beach volleyball courts, or catching a game of horseshoes, dodge ball, or baggo.

Sideouts Bar & Eatery also adjoins the 20 lane, 3D Bowl, which co-owner Jerry Delaurentis said his family started in 1960. He added that his father and he opened Sideouts in 1994. According to Jeny, since then Sideouts has become the number one outdoor beach volleyball facility in the Midwest."

Summer Camp Advice From Parents Who've Been There

ning on sending your child contender. to camp for the first time or are trying a new camp this coming summer, it behooves you to start the process early, even though swimming trunks and popsicle crafts are the furthest things from your

Despite spring registra-tion cut-off dates, most popular camps book far in advance. Unless you want to be "the worst parent ever" in the eyes of your child, start now and avoid the melodrama later. However, waiting until the last minute isn't the only foible many parents make in regards to summer camp, Here are some pointers from parents who've made the mistakes you should avoid.

"I used to squeeze too much into my children's schedule during the summer. I'd organize activity after activity, including a few weeks at summer camp. Instead of enjoying the summer, my kids got a 'little stressed out — and so did I. Don't pack too many things in, and schedule adequate time between say, the end of a family vacation and the beginning of summer camp, so everyone has enough time to relax and recuperate!

Denise Reynolds, California

"It's easy to forget when you're caught up in the researching process that your child is the one going to camp, not you . What may be fun for you is not necessarily fun for your kid. Involve your son or daughter in the process, and let your child choose the camp that interests him or her the best. Then you can narrow down the

Bill Pasternak, Oregon

"I'm a procrastinator by nature, so in addition to often making the mistake of registering my children too late for camp and then pleading with admissions personnel, I'd also forget to fill out the forms the camp requires, such as the medical-release form. Instead of stashing it in the back of the junk drawer, leave it out and bring it with you to a scheduled doctor's checkup with an envelope already stamped and addressed. Then you just have to pop it in the mail when you leave the office."

Robin Hollister. Massachusetts

"Despite what my children say about how embarrassing it is to hear from their parents while at summer camp ('we're not babies you know'), I always write a few letters to them. Even though they put on a great show of bravery when I drop them off the first day, I know there's nothing worse than being the only child whose name is not called when mail arrives.'

Suresh Patel, New Jersey

"Do you know how many times I've bought my kids new clothes for camp and when they come home the clothes are destroyed or missing? Don't waste money on new clothes. Scrounge up what you have around the house, check out garage sales or visit discount stores if you really must stock up on shorts and T-shirts."

Desiree Brown, South Carolina

"My kids always appreciate a care package. It helps prevent them from becoming homesick because I put in some of their favorite types of toys, magazines and even some of the food they're used to eating. Although camp cafeterias are getting better with serving a variety of foods, I doubt platanos are available just

Boy band brings back mèmories

The end is nigh. The original boy band, New Kids on the Block, has reunited.

It makes me wonder what the other three horsemen of the apocalypse will look like. I've started having flashbacks that make me scream and convulse on the floor.

Lapologize in advance if this column does not interest you because a) you have the Jonas Brothers photos on your iPhone b) you have a faded poster of Leif Garrett c) you've been to a Rudolph Valentino talkie - when he was alive.

But every generation of tween girls who have matured past the boys at school over the summer becomes brainwashed by some cheesy pop culture

So maybe everybody can re-

Of course, if there's anyone to blame for this reunion, it might as well be me.

Not only did I spend $5,385,210.34 on teen mags between 1988 and 1990. I also wrote one of the New Kids an inspirational letter in 1989 on stone-washed denim-patterned stationery. I saw a New Kids on the Block concert on the lawn of the long-gone Poplar Creek theater in 1989.

And I use the word "saw" loosely. Frankly, we couldn't even hear them.

I hope New Kids on the Block don't think I'm going to buy any new album they re-

I mean, we broke up so long ago, and frankly, they weren't very attentive boyfriends.

Now the fans can move on

Now it is your chance to say goodbye, to let go. We can put it all behind us, all the headaches and the hurt. It is, after all, long overdue.

When Dusty Baker emerges from the dugout early this evening at Wrigley Field, either to shake some hands in the fading daylight or at dusk to turn over the night's lineup card, all the memories will come flooding back. You will see those toothpicks and the wristbands and that big, toothy smile and, just like that, you'll be reminded of what he put you through. Yeah, you're going to forget the good times he gave because the suffering at the end left an indelible scar,

Don't think it won't come rushing back to him, too. He likes to be California cool, brush off the tough questions and the hurtful memories with a "Hey, man" and a shrug of the

But last week I sat in the visitor's dugout in Milwaukee and listened to him reminisce about Chicago and there was an unspoken dread about returning to Chicago, when he will bring his new team, the Cincinnati Reds, to Wrigley Field to face the Cubs. He said it didn't bother him that he was coming back or that he would be booed. At least that's what his words said, his eyes and his tone and his body language suggested he would rather eat shards of glass for dinner than face that awful

He'll have the same sights flashing before his eyes that you'll have. He won't see the "In Dusty We Trusty" Tshirts or the folks headed to the Internet looking to buy a specific brand brand Baker chomped on. You'll forget that the end of the Lovable Loser era was largely his doing, that he changed the expectations from a good time being had by all to an unyielding premium placed on winning. Baker changed the culture.

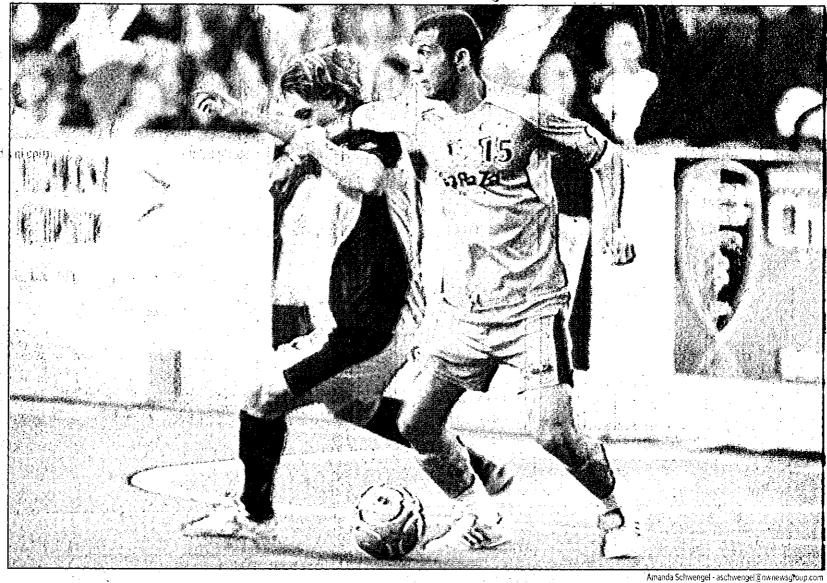

We all long have forgotten the reasons why he was universally adored; that first year - well, most of the first year, minus maybe the last 32 outs or so. The reasons we all wanted him gone have erased the good times.

And those feelings will rush up from your gut and all come back today the moment you see him inside the old place.

It's time to let go. This is your chance to get it all out, once and for all. This is your chance at closure, to yell and scream and, probably, curse at him because he couldn't break the curse. Let him have it.

The guy, along with some help from Mark Prior and Kerry Wood and Moises Alou and Alex Gonzalez, broke your heart.

Hawthorn Woods resident continues soccer career with Chicago Storm

By JESSICA JACOBSEN

HOFFMAN ESTATES - Stephen Brust is getting a chance to do something he loves.

Originally from Arlington Heights, Brust ·loved playing sports, but one stood out against the rest - soccer.

Brust, of Hawthorn Woods, started playing soccer when he was in kindergarten, and his success motivated him to stick with it.

"I was always scoring goals, so it seemed to be my sport," he said.

His love and talent for soccer brought him to play in college at Cedarville (Ohio) in 2003 and he finished his college career at Bradley in His graduation from Bradley looked like it might be the end of his playing career. So Brust began working for his dad. Then, opportunity knocked on his door.

Brust, 23, was drafted in the third round of the Major Indoor Soccer League by the Chicago Storm.

"Not many people get the opportunity to do a professional sport so when the opportunity comes and knocks on your door and you walk away from that, I don't know," Brust said about his choice to play for the Storm.

Brust, who plays forward, made his debut Feb. 28, a week after signing with the Storm, against La Raza de Monterrey.

In Brust's 12 professional games, including three playoff games, he scored a two-point goal against La Raza de Monterrey.

Storm coach Steve Morris foresees a positive future for Brust.

"He's a wonderful athlete. He's powerful, he's strong, he's quick," Morris said.

Brust brings something to the table that Morris can't teach him. .

'You can't teach effort and you can't teach attitude," Morris said. "And we're fortunate he comes with both of those. Brust's effort and attitude are just as important off the field as on because the example he's setting for his little brother, Ben, who plays basketball at Mundelein High School. "I feel like I'm paving the way for him since he's got a lot of skill and he's got a lot of potential ... but he plays a different sport so I might not necessarily understand the sport as much," Brust said. "But I'm there to help him with perspectives and work ethic and how hard you to be to make it at the next level."

With this being Brust's rookie season, he also has people to look up to - his teammates.

"You learn from the guys who have been part of the game for awhile and they give you little points and little tips and ... it helps you along the way, all those little things they teach you."

The Storm and Brust's season came to an end Ápril 13 with a quarterfinal loss to La Raza de Monterrey. Brust won't be taking it easy though.

"I plan to start training in the offseason and keep getting better and see what other soccer opportunities open up for me," he said. "Hopefully, I'll be back here again next year."

But Brust isn't all work and no play. He has hobby that he can't get enough of.

"I love pingpong," he said with a smile. "I play a lot of pingpong.'

Get over the bad Baker memories

(Notice I didn't mention the poor guy sitting down the leftfield line. None of what happened was his fault; he simply reached up for a foul ball like night). Don't shake your head in an effort to clear your mind when the visions start popping up. Think about them. 'Put yourself through it one more time, one final time.

Then walk away. See Neifi Perez jogging out to play shortstop instead of Ronny Cedeno or Ryan Theriot. Hear Dusty say "where would we be without Neifi." Look at Mark Prior and Kerry Wood standing on that bullpen mound throwing a towel instead of a baseball. Then see the box scores that showed how many pitches Baker allowed them to throw before they began down the yearly path to the disabled list. You blame him for their injuries, don't you? So many do.

That won't be all you'll see. You get more angry when your mind drifts to all the silly things Baker did and said spilling some magic dust in the outfield, rubbing holy water on his players, repeating "Hey, dude" over and over, complaining about the height of the infield grass, engaging in a petty feud with a couple of broadcasters, placating Sammy Sosa and LaTroy Hawkins, tolerating the silliness of Carlos Zambrano.

It'll go on, and before you know it, you'll see Alou or some other player making a bad baserunning mistake or missing a cutoff man. And, of course, with that you'll start muttering about fundamen-

It's going to emotional, but then, memories, especially bad ones, tend to be emotional.

But don't bottle them up anymore. Let them out. Let him have it.

Then, finally, get over it. It's time for everybody – you and him - to get on with your

Antioch student commits ANTIOCH - Megan Toczek signed a national letter of intent to play volleyball at Western Illinois University. Toczek was a three-year starter for the Sequoits and helped lead the team to three consecutive North Suburban Conference Prairie Division championships. Toczek has been recognized on several all-conference and all-area teams during her career.

With Toczek signing, Antioch has three athletes this year who have received NCAA Division I scholarships. In February Susie O'Connor signed with DePaul for soccer and Kalli Krumpos signed with Georgetown for field hockey.

Carmel student to play at Augustana this fall

MUNDELEIN - Aaron Kwasigroch, a standout twosport athlete from Carmel Catholic High School in Mundelein, has announced that he will attend Augustana this fall where he will be a member of the high successful Vikings' football program.

A 6-foot-one, 165-pound defensive back, Kwasigroch earned two varsity letters in football for coach Andy Bitto's Corsairs, who finished 2007 with a 10-3 record and reached the IHSA Class 7A semifinals.

He also lettered in track and field for coach Jim Halford. Kwasigroch played cornerback at Carmel and finished his senior year with 63 tackles and five interceptions.

Kwasigroch was an honorable mention all-conference selection in the East Suburban Catholic Conférence as well as a third team member of Pioneer Press' Lake Shore all-area team. Aaron is the son of Mark and Camie Kwasigroch of Wauconda. He plans on major-

Picking the appropriate paint for your space

(MS) — When it comes time to paint the interior of your home, there's more to consider than just color. One of the main considerations when choosing a paint is how often the room is

• Busy, high-traffic rooms: In general, rooms such as the kitchen and bathroom and areas such as hallways, are the most used in a home. Because of that, you'll want a paint that won't buckle under frequent washings. Satin or eggshell paints are recommended for these areas, as they won't succumb to wear and tear.

• Show rooms: Many homes feature a living room that's not used very much, and an additional living or family room where friends and family gather to watch television or simply enjoy each other's company. In rooms that are primarily for show, flat paint is a good choice. Flat paint requires lots more work to clean, so you'll want to use it in lower traffic areas where the surfaces won't get as dirty. Best for surfaces where you'll want a low reflection, flat paint is often used for ceilings as well.

Keep Your Home Spring Clean With Molly Maid

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER

It's time for spring-cleaning, but time is the one thing you don't. have. "Think Pink" and call in the cleaning professionals at Molly Maid of Northern Lake County. They'll keep your house spring clean year-round.

After 20 years in the corporate world, owner Jerry Graczyk said he launched a new career by buying a Molly Maid franchise, be-coming part of a nationwide network of housekeeping professionals. Jerry's franchise has been in operation for the past 10 years, while Molly Maid has a successful track record of over 25 years.

Graczyk noted that Molly Maid of Northern Lake County is on Angie's List, and is a member of the Better Business Bureau, Jerry said his business stands out from the competition because, "we have a higher level of concern or care for the customer." He added that's why they just received a commendation from the Better Business Bureau for being complaint free in 2007.

This care is reflected in the rigorous cleaning standards that are part of Molly Maid's "Pink Glove Treatment". Customers are assigned a regular cleaning team that follows a detailed checklist to make sure every surface is spot-
